Open Educational Resources and the Bull’s-Eye

Opening Access to Knowledge AND Improving Teaching and Learning

Catherine M. Casserly, Ph.D.
Vice President, Innovation and Open Networks | Senior Partner
The Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching

MIT LINC Conference 2010
Cambridge, MA
May 2010
The Carnegie Foundation

- 100 year history
- Community college focus
- Integrative force
MATH and STATISTICS PATHWAY NETWORKS: Building Innovation Supply, Stimulating Demand
Our Goal

• Students mathematically prepared
• Blend language, literacy, “do college”
• Data driven
New Pathways to Quantitative Reasoning
Survival Curve Graph

- Year 1: 70% (Fall), 57% (Spring)
- Year 2: 42% (Fall)
- Year 3: Degree/Certificate (end of year 3)
Classroom Video

• Myra Snell
• Los Medanos College
Open Educational Resources

- Create
- Share
- Improve
- Redistribute
Open Educational Resources
Networked Improvement Community

- Collective effort
- Shared knowledge base
- Diffusion of what works
“We want to help community colleges build new pathways worthy of mathematics, worthy of their students, and worthy of their institutional missions.”